

AP literature Lesson Plans

May 4 - May 8, 2020

This is it! Your last set of assignments in AP literature! It may seem a little different, but these sentences are great practice for developing complexity of writing. Use the word count and sentence structure to show your skills - accomplish the task given with the parameters. There is an essay for practice (I will put the prompt on google classroom).

Monday, May 4, 2020

-write a 50-word complex sentence explaining what a metaphor is

Tuesday, May 5, 2020

-write a metaphor

-write a 50-word complex sentence explaining your metaphor

Wednesday, May 6, 2020

-write a 50-word sentence explaining the purpose of alliteration

Thursday, May 7, 2020

-question 2 practice

+put 45 minutes on the clock

+shoot for 650 words

Friday, May 8, 2020

-critique your essay (be critical of your own work)

*critique just means put an honest eye to it

-things to look for:

1). Did you completely accomplish what was asked of you? (did you thoroughly cover the prompt?)

2). Did you write with sophistication? (varied sentence structure, quality diction, solid organization, etc.)

3). Did you show your ability to think for yourself? (you made a nuanced claim and supported it with the text)